Agri interventions trends

- Focus on cocoa, cashew and palm
- Relationships begin with post-harvest working capital to cooperatives / SMEs for the purchase of (i) cocoa beans ready for export, (ii) raw cashew nuts or palm fresh fruit bunches for local processing
- Then provide input finance
- Then investment finance (equipment, plantation renovation)

Leading export crops, cocoa & cashews show strong investment potential

Source: Agriculture in Africa 2021 Oxford Business report

- Cocoa and cashew: if processed, some of the highest untapped export potential
- Cashew and cocoa also to benefit the most from increased use of fertilisers and extension services
- Higher technology adoption and expanding applications in cocoa

Renewable energy & financial inclusion investments benefit agri upgrades

Impact of financial inclusion

- Improved support for input finance leading to increased production yield and farm revenue, enhance fight against deforestation (Ocean, MOCA)
- Combination of savings and microinsurance to increase resilience (Planet Guarantee, Soro Yiriwas)
- Establishment of VC finance to improve post-harvest marketing, ensure smooth farm – firm relationships (Benin Cashew, ACA)
